

Police Service of Northern Ireland

INFORMATION FROM THE POLICE FOLLOWING RECENT PUBLIC DISORDER IN NORTHERN IRELAND

Your Police Service recognises that the civil unrest and protest activity of recent days are a great concern.

You have our support and we are doing everything we can to prevent the disorder and bring those responsible to justice.

Police officers will be on patrol right across Northern Ireland.

We are here to keep you safe and to prevent attacks from taking place.

If you see anything which makes you feel afraid please contact police.

How to contact Police

- In an emergency call 999
- If you have information about a crime – call 101
- Report online through the PSNI website click [here]

We will investigate your report.

If you are concerned about contacting police yourself

- Speak to a trusted person, community representative or support worker
- Contact the independent Hate Crime Advocacy Service on 028 9024 3133

Every incident matters and we want to hear from you.

What else are the police doing?

We are working with many partner organisations to make sure our response is the very best it can be.

We are in contact with diverse community representatives to make sure that information reaches you and we understand what you need from us.

More help and advice is available

Further information on hate crime - click here

Information on keeping yourself safe – click here

Protect Yourself – A Guide to Personal Security Booklet – click here

Information on keeping your home safe – click here